Come attend an evening with Madame Mariska, the country's newest up-and-coming Psychic Advisor. But when a snag in the evening's proceedings leads to someone dying, the spirits of Sherlock Holmes and Dr. Watson possess two people there. Watch the hilarious hijinks ensue as Holmes and Watson try to figure out why they have come back from the Beyond and deal with the 21st Century!

Our Mission Statement

MO Productions seeks to provide unique, quality comedic entertainment for a variety of age groups at a reasonable price.

It is our goal to include and engage every audience member during the course of a performance, and to get at least one audible laugh out of each of them. We will try to 'recognize' as many audience members as celebrities as we can.

We will create unique, insanely funny characters who will entertain and annoy as needed. We will take established pop culture icons, and spoof them to the extreme.

We will have at least one "death" per show. We will have corny sound cues and melodramatic theme music to underscore some dialogue. At least one actor will wear a wig.

MO Productions will provide something people will want to recommend to their friends, family and business colleagues. Our shows will be something they plan on attending again and again.

Who is MO Productions?

MO Productions was created and is helmed by Matthew D. Osmun. Matthew holds a Bachelor's degree in theatre from Ithaca College, and has been performing, directing, writing and producing murder mystery dinner theatre for over eighteen years. He is the co-founder of White Rose Productions in Pennsylvania, and served as their Director for five years before relocating to Colorado in 2007, where he has formed a sister company, MO Productions. Matthew continues to uphold the standards White Rose is based on, and seeks to provide unique, quality entertainment!

MO Productions' target audience is anyone who enjoys a wacky time and a good laugh. Our shows are designed to include a full evening of dinner and entertainment, lasting about 3-4 hours from seating to finish, for groups of approximately 30-150 people. We are the perfect entertainment for a restaurant, banquet hall, corporate party or a charity fundraiser. Our shows are designed to be intimate and interactive with every audience member, and allow total strangers to have a laugh with each other. The shows are usually rated PG-13, spoof and poke fun at a number of topical subjects and pop culture icons. You provide the space and the food, and we will provide the laughs!

Our Current Show

Available Thru January 2012

As Slain on TV

It's the first annual As Seen on TV Awards, hosted by Anthony Sullivan. A number of famous (or infamous) TV Pitchmen and Pitchwomen are on hand to see who will win. Among them are Vince Offer (Sham-Wow) and Cathy Mitchell (10 Second Smoothie). The previously unknown child of another pitchman makes a surprise appearance, and on hand to present a special award is... Lady Gaga?

With so many wacky personalities in the same room, it doesn't take long before rivalries are revealed and accusations made about people stealing each others ideas. When someone dies, figuring out whodunit may take longer than a Chia Pet to grow!!
